From London Papers.

THE ORIGIN OF PAPER MONEY.

The invention of paper money is much more ancient than the establishment of the earliest banks. The bank of St. George, of Genoa, the most ancient we know, was founded in 1407; but before the end of the thirteenth century, Koblai, grandson of Genghis Khan, the Tartar conqueror, introduced paper money into China, and his example was at once followed by his cousin, Kaigatou, the sultan of Persia: both were obliged to abolish it, on account of the great disorders it produced in their extensive dominions.

Since this epoch the Chinese government has again established paper money, and in Russia tney can now show a "Chinese assignat."

In Turkey also, the collectors of certain taxes deliver receipts to those who pay them, and these papers have the currency of money.

It is not pretended that paper money was first invented by the Mongols; on the contrary, its invention was every where as easy as its use was obvious, and particularly attractive for all governments, for its temporary advantage in crises of difficulty.

The idea of substituting a token, or promissory obligation for a present intrinsic value, could occur even to a simple or barbarous people, of which there are many examples.

Aristotle, in his Economics, tells us that Denis, the tyrant of Syracuse, coined money of tin, which he declared to be legal, and equivalent to silver!

Timotheus, the general of the Athenians, in a moment of difficulty, coined brass money, and assured his murmering soldiers, that he would receive it, in the purchase of the spoils he was to make. We have heard much of the leathern money used by the Carthagenians.

It is true, none of these are paper money, but resemble it, as merely "tokens of value;" the money of confidence; the I. O. U.

We read also of the iron money of Byzantium, and of some of the ancient cities of Greece.

In England, our copper money is only a token or sign, current for nearly double its value as metal.

In Russia, skins and furs have been used for money, but their inconvenient bulk gave rise, in early time, to an ingenious representative of their natural coins, which was small pieces of leather stamped, which were used as money, to be liquidated by furs and skins, as expressed. This leathern coin was used in some parts as the fractions of the silver copeck, down to the year 1700.

Among the simple Hindoos, whose wants are few, and the produce of the earth acquired with little labor, gold and silver, or even copper or iron, are of no great value in comparison; and their small money is cowry shells, collected on the shores of Ceylon and of the Maldive Islands; these shells have been the current money of the Mongols, of Bengal, and Botan, as well as of Guinea. On the discovery of America, grains of Cacao served for money. In Abyssinia, their merchandizes are valued by salt and pepper; at Newfoundland, by cod fish; in Virginia, by tobacco; in Iceland, by a sort of wool; pieces of nankeen serve for the money of comparison, in the exchanges between the Chinese and the Russians, at Kiaktu; among the Greeks of the lower empire, pieces of silk performed this function; in ancient Chronicles, gold, silver and silk, are mentioned equally as money.

The basis of the currency of the Chinese and of the Russians, seems to be more curious and substantial than any other. The small coins of the Chinese appear to cost more in the labor of fabrication than they are worth in their currency: they cannot, therefore, be forged, and the material is a mixed metal worth more in the crucible, or for exportation, than its use as coin.

In Russia, the abundant base of their currency is copper, whose value in coin is less than in commerce as metal: this is an unusual condition, but a happy one as far as it extends.

As riches and circulations increased with civilization and confidence, and after the discovery of America and the working in its mines, gold and silver took with advantage the place of all these expedients; one step further has been taken, on the basis of credit in the use of paper money.

Metalic money, in its value, its quantity, its facility and rapidity of circulation—in its transport and presence, can no longer be suitable or equal to the exigencies of our trade and exchanges: paper is become indispensable every where in foreign commerce, and as useful as necessary in the great internal trade of an improved, active and productive country.

CARNIVEROUS APPETITE IN HORSES.

Five and thirty years ago the writer frequently saw a young horse, which prefered roasted or boiled meat to grass and corn. His dam was killed by an unfortunate accident, when the foal was five weeks old: he was fed by the dairy maid with cow's milk, and soon familiarly followed her to the kitchen. He began to gnaw bones in mere playfulness, but his carniverous taste was not suspected, till the remains of a piece of roast-beef, set to cool in the pantry window, was carried away by him. He was afterwards offered slices of beef, mutton, veal, or lamb, which he excepted like a dog; he did not like pork, but all kinds of game were highly agreeable to him. In different parts of India the horses in an encampment are served with boiled sheep's heads, as a mess more nutrive than grain, when they have an extraordinary fatigue to undergo. May not this account admit of practical application? When grain and fodder are scarce, the worst cattle might be killed, and boiled into strong soup, cutting the flesh small, among straw, hay, or other vegetable provender. During scarscity, the cattle of Iceland go to the shores, and feed on fish.

From the London Morning Post, of Jan. 12, received at the office of the Baltimore Federal Gazette.

COBBETT AND THE PICK-POCKET CLUB.

An extraordinary meeting of the pick-pocket club was held yesterday, at the sign of the Hampshire hog, Knave's-ace. After Mr. Frank Filch had been unanimously called to the chair—

Bill Soames rose and opened the business of the meeting. He said they were that day assembled to confer the honor of membership on one of the greatest geniusses of the age. Gentlemen would instantly perceive that he meant their friend Bill Cobbett. They must all have perused, with the same delight that he had done, the letter addressed by Bill to Mr. Tipper, one of his creditors; but with the leave of the club, he would read that part of it which particularly entitled Bill to the honor about to be conferred on him. Here the worthy speaker read the following passages from the said letter.—

"I hold it to be perfectly just that I should never, in any way whatever, give up one single farthing of my future earnings to the payment of any debt in England.

"When the society is too weak or unwilling to defend the property, whether mental or of a more ordinary and vulgar species, and where there is not the will or the power in the society to yield him protection, he becomes clearly absolved of all his engagements of every sort to that society, because in every bargain of every kind it is understood that both the parties are to continue to enjoy the protection of the laws of property."

These (continued the orator), were noble sentiments—sentiments which ought to be written in letters of gold, and placed over the chair of their club room—sentiments which came home to the bosoms and business of every true pick-pocket—sentiments to which every smasher, trapper, kidlayer, ringdropper, swindler, sharper, and forger of bank notes present, would heartily subscribe. He felt himself growing warm; but as the short days, and the thick fogs which at present prevailed in the metropolis, rendered the time of every gentleman of the profession trebly valuable, he would no longer detain them from their several avocations, but would conclude with moving, "that Bill Cobbett be admitted an honorary member of this society."

Rob Blarney seconded the motion. He agreed, he said, in every sentiment, that his friend Soames had uttered. The principles laid down in the letter referred to, must endear Bill Cobbett to every member of that club. They were, if he might so express himself, of the very essence of pickpocketism. But it was not alone for having promulgated this glorious system of ethics that he deemed Bill a fit gentleman to come among them. There were other traits in his character that richly entitled him to that honor. In the moment of danger no man could "hop the twigg" with such dexterity. When in 1792, Bill bro't some half score of false charges against his officer, and a court martial was assembled at Chelsea, what did he do?—hop the twig! In 1800 when the rascally Yankee government fined him 5000 dollars for merely robbing a man of his character, what did Bill do?—hop the twig! Again, in 1817, when things went rather queer with him, and his creditors pressed him a little too closely, what did Bill do?—hop the twig! To be able to run away skilfully was the very soul of the profession; and for this, among other eminent qualities, he trusted Bill Cobbett would "hop the twig" a fourth time, and come among them—but not before he had stuck it into the Yankees. (A laugh.)

Huffey White said, he loved Bill Cobbett because he was a man of his word.—In his leave-taking address, when he suddenly disappeared in 1817, Bill had said that we should "all be able to distinguish his voice as a pig did his mother's, even though there should be hundreds of other pigs grunting at the same moment," and Bill had kept his promise with a vengeance.

Joe King said, he thought every smasher present must feel his heart beat at the prospect of having Cobbett among them. His recent proposition for forging Bank notes by thousands and tens of thousands, and dispersing them in every lane and alley of this vast metropolis, bespoke him a great man.

Sam Browning said, he had entertained a regard for Cobbett even since he had taken his trial at Winchester for cruelty towards the boy Jesse Burgess. Bill's conduct on that occasion had proved him to be superior to vulgar prejudices of humanity, and such like stuff.

Tim Smith said, he was in habits of correspondence with Bill, and was happy to inform the company, that Bill was at present engaged in reducing the profession to rule, and had actually completed a work, to be entitled "the Pickpocket's Grammar, or thieving made easy." It was much to be wished that Bill should try his hand at a dictionary of the blackguard tongue, as no man living was so well qualified for the undertaking.—(Hear, hear.)

Conkey Bo said, he was no orator. He wished his character to stand on deeds, not words. He had last night nabbed a handsome gold sneezer from one of the rascally borough mongers, and he would propose that it should be sent to Bill Cobbett, with the freedom of the society in the said sneezer. (Loud cries of hear, hear.)

The motion was then put and agreed to. The thanks of the meeting was given to Mr. Frank Filch, for his unexampled conduct in the chair. After which the company dispersed.

DISSOLUTION OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

On Wednesday last, His Excellency the Lieut. Governor dissolved the General Assembly of this province, after having given his assent to all the Bills agreed to except one. As the Journals of the House received are of no later date than Saturday, we cannot correctly state the circumstances which led to this expedient.

The following is said to be the substance of His Excellency's Speech on the occasion:—

"Gentlemen of the Council, and
"Gentlemen of the Assembly,

"Having passed such bills of the present Session as have been agreed to, with one exception, I have only to express my hopes that the Acts may prove advantageous to the interests of the Province.

"Gentlemen of the Assembly.

"It is with regret that I have to remark, that hardly any provisions have been made for those services which have been particularly recommended by me to your consideration; and it is with great concern that I notice your persistance in a measure to which your attention has been very recently called, which I cannot suffer to pass unnoticed consistent with the duty I owe to my Sovereign.

"The only mode which you have now left me to do is this, by dissolving the General Assembly."

Cerro, January 31.

The man of war which left this place on a cruise the 29th inst. came to anchor—the commander reported that he fell in with a privateer schooner under Buenos Ayres colors the day before, and commenced an engagement with him, which lasted about six hours. During the combat the privateer made three attempts to board but was repulsed. She had 5 guns, (one on a pivot) about 200 tons, and full of men.—H. M. schooner being a dull sailer, labored under many disadvantages, so that the privateer made her as before by superior sailing and the darkness of the night. The schooner had several men wounded, and one dangerously; she also suffered considerably in her sails and rigging, and put in to repair. It is supposed the privateer is waiting for the vessels to come out. There are many to sail with valuable cargoes, &c.

Charleston, April 9.

Our Havana papers are full of the successes of the Royalists in Mexico. The far famed General Victoria, who once commanded an army of 60,000 men, with which he threatened to overturn the royal authority in that kingdom, is now, it is stated, a wretched fugitive, forsaken, betrayed, and even pursued by his former republican followers.

Mr. Vincent Gray has been appointed the protector of the English and American emigrants, arriving at the Havana, in the stead of Mr. David Nagle, deceased.

Pensacola and the Barancas were occupied by the Spanish authorities and troops on the 8th February last. The correspondence which took place on the occasion, between col. King and the commander of the Spanish forces, is published in the Havana "Diario." A detachment of 270 men, had been sent to receive possession of St. Marks, from the American troops.

CALUMNY REPUTED.

St. Thomas, 10 March 1819.

MESSRS. EDITORS,

As your columns have become the vehicle through which my character has been publicly and most unjustly assailed, I trust they will be found equally open to a public vindication of it. I allude to an article in your paper purporting to be a "letter from St. John, N. B. to a gentleman in Boston," relative to my conduct on speaking the British brig Harriet, Newell, every syllable of which I assert to be absolutely false. The facts were as follows: On the first Oct. I spoke the brig Harriet, Newell, dismasted. At the request of captain Thain, I furnished him with a lower and topsail yard, two barrels bread, two pieces rigging, being the Octavius' preventer back stays, a boom tackle fall, two case bottles rum, 1 cask of water of 70 gallons, and one of 32, some beef and pork, part of a coil of nearly new rigging, a ball of spun yarn, a parcel of blocks, and some candles, together with several other articles, of which no account was taken, they having been freely given to a vessel in distress, without either a wish or expectation of renumeration. For all these articles captain Thain, voluntarily tendered me an order on New-York, for 70 dollars, which I accepted. I therefore pronounce it to be false that I asked him 100 dolls for two spars; it is false that I had 100 barrels bread on board, I had only six; and it is false that I either asked or received 14 dolls. per bbl. for bread—I received not one cent. From these circumstances I have no doubt that capt. Thain's statement respecting the schr. Iris, of Philadelphia, is equally unfounded.

In justice to capt. Thain, his behaviour on board the Octavius was such as led me to conclude he was a gentleman, his subsequent conduct has however convinced me of the reverse.

You will please give this an insertion in a conspicuous situation, and oblige

SAM'L. V. CHANDLER.
Master of the brig Octavius of Baltimore

Extract from the letter of an American gentleman to his friend in Boston, dated "Malaga, March 5.

"As the situation of individuals in captivity, is a subject at all times interesting to the humane, I have taken the liberty of stating what I know relative to our countrymen confined on the coast of Africa and this place, that the minds of those, feeling an interest in their welfare, may be relieved from the unpleasant sensations with which they must naturally be filled from the prejudiced accounts received from time to time in the United States regarding their treatment, which, when known, far from being injurious to the character of the Spanish government, will redound much to their honor.

"At Albucenas, and Penon, de la Gomera, fortresses on the Moorish coast. Thomas C. Conckling, Zebina Sears, Thomas Weston, John Smith, and —— Thompson, are confined! These men have been supplied through the humanity of Mr. Erving, our minister at Madrid, Mr. R. W. Meade, and our countrymen in Cadiz, Gibraltar, and this place, with upwards of two thousand dollars, clothing and other things to make them comfortable, and as there is a regular communication between those places and this city, there can be no no danger whatever of their suffering for any of the necessaries of life, the governor having given his sanction for clothing, provisions, and money being sent them thro' the United States consul at this place.

"In the prison of this city, Cushman Lapham, James Perine, Michael Winans, and Ezekiel Plyer, are confined. They have been regularly supplied with clothing and provisions, and a weekly allowance of money is regularly supplied them.

"I visited the prison, and was informed by them, that with the exception of the loss of liberty, they had no reason to complain, but were treated with every kindness they possibly could expect from any government! They were comfortably dressed, and in excellent health. Every thing that can be done for them by our minister at Madrid, I understand will be, and the worst they have to fear, is imprisonment, until the subjects in discussion between the U. States and this country are amicably settled.

"In assisting these unfortunate men, our consul George G. Barrell, and Mr. William Leach, of this place, particularly deserve the approbation of the humane. The former has exerted himself in a manner honorable to the station in which he has been placed by our government, and both have given sufficient proof of generosity, to secure their gratitude and that of their friends. [Patriot.

Wilmington, (N. C.) April 3.

In the beginning of the last month, a large Portuguese ship, about 700 tons burthen, from Pernambuco, bound to Lisbon, loaded with sugar, indigo, cotton, &c. was lost on Beaufort bar, in this state.

The cargo was valued at 300,000 dollars—nothing was saved. She was a prize to the La Patria privateer, cruising under the commission of Artigas.

On the 23d ult. a Portuguese schooner, loaded with brandy, was run ashore in the day time, near the same place. The brandy was saved, and brought forty-two casks, on the beach. Query—Who bought it?

We further learn, from good authority, that several other prizes were off our coast and that nothing prevented them from being wrecked, but the late stormy weather!

HORRID TRANSACTION.

Extract of a letter to the Editor of the Reporter, dated Eddyville, Feb. 26.

"A most horrid, inhuman, and audacious murder, was committed in this neighborhood on Saturday last, on the body of Smith Moore, and attempts were made to murder Stanfield Moore, his brother, Jane Moore, his sister, and one Talbot.

"The circumstances seem to be, that the father of the Moores and Talbot, strangers from Pensylvania, lately hired a farm of the widow Long, about six miles from this, and had moved to it with their families: in the afternoon on Saturday, James M'Auley, Joshua Perkins, and Jonah ——, living at or near the mouth of Cumberland river, professing to belong to a regulating party, came with arms to the house where those people lived. Talbot being at the door, invited them into the house—as he walked in, two rifles were levelled at him, one missed fire, the other took effect, the ball went thro' his shoulder and back, lodging in the other shoulder; he fell exclaiming he was a dead man. At the same time the other of the murderers went to the opposite door to prevent the escape of those within, being a considerable number of men, women and children.

"The murderers next attacked Smith and Stanfield Moore, with knives, dirks, &c. the latter received many wounds, but effected his escape into the woods with life, while SMITH MOORE bore the brunt of the murderers' rage; besides receiving many other wounds, Perkins gave him a mortal stab in his body above his second lower rib, which reached into his liver; after which he made many efforts to escape, but the unrelenting savages pursued and beat him with their guns until the breath left his body. While he was crying for help and mercy, his sister, a girl of 17, running towards him with a stick in her hand, fell in with M'Auley, and struck him to the ground; M'Auley recovering, struck her to the ground, wounded her badly, and left her for dead. During the transactions, the father and mother of Moore, and the woman present, by tears, argument and exertions, endeavoured to check the inhuman murderers, for which they received nothing but insult, and threats that they should also lose their lives.—The murderers fixed a rope about the neck of the dying Moore, and were dragging him along, as if to secret the dead body, when Perkins became alarmed and cried out "it is time for us to be off, the neighborhood will be up in arms against us;" on this they retired. Such is a sketch of the history of this horrid transaction, taken from the witnesses who appeared before the jury of inquest on the body of Moore. Perkins is a militia major, and M'Aurey, who is a man of family and property, is a Justice of the Peace in Livingston county; some attempts have been made to apprehend them, but they are yet running at large near their homes.

"This barbarous murder has been committed under pretext of punishing offenders against the laws, and shocking as it is to state it, there are in this civilized christian country, those who justify this conduct. It is an awful state of things, where the vilest men, under pretence of suppressing villany, are countenanced in whipping, wounding, maiming and murdering those whom prejudice or ill will point out as victims of their displeasure; in this state of things, the terrorists, the regulators, have no security for for their own lives against the displeasure of their coadjutors."

THE FIRES

Every part of the country seems to have been visited with destructive fires this spring, some distressing accounts of which will be found in the preceeding columns. In Fredericksburg, we have been happily exempted from this evil more than we deserved. Had a fire taken place during the high winds that prevailed last week, such is our want of preparation in the means of resisting it, that our utmost efforts must have availed but little. The woods in the country around, have been on fire in every direction, and much damage has been sustained in fences, &c.

We learn from Albemarle, that the north wing of Monticello house was burnt on Friday last—happily the principal building was saved.

The dwelling house of Mr. Jesse Lewis, about two miles beyond Charlottesville, and Carr's Brook, the seat of Dabney Minor, Esq. of the same county, were both burnt at the same time.

INTERESTING NEWS FROM VALPARAISO.

The ship Essex, of Nantucket, which arrived at the Vineyard 3d inst. left Valparaiso on the 1st December. Capt. Russel reports that he left there three frigates, six gun brigs and five transports, just taken from the royalists, with 1200 troops, and an immense property in goods. He also states that Lord Cochrane arrived at Valparaiso, with his family, on the 28th November, in a ship of about 600 tons. Salutes were fired from every armed vessel in the port, and from the fort; a public dinner was given, and great joy manifested.

Gunston for Sale.

THIS elegant estate is situated on the Potomac, 16 miles below Alexandria—it is bounded on three sides by the Potomac and Pohick creek, and contains nearly 3,000 acres of land, level and fertile, to which are attached six shad and herring fisheries, two of which command the river channel. This land will be laid off in four tracts, so as to have one or more fisheries to each; these tracts will be again divided if requisite. This estate is level and beautifully situated, very fertile, and remarkably healthy. Plaister acts with an effect equal to that of any part of Virginia or Pennsylvania.—I have used 500 bushels in twelve months, and such is its beneficial operation, that were I to keep this land I should considerably increase the quantity. A manufacturing mill is distant about two miles, on a stream navigable for vessels carrying 1200 bushels of wheat, where the Baltimore and Dist. of Columbia prices are given for grain: being bounded on 3 sides by water, a small extent only of fence is necessary to inclose the whole: it would be admirably adapted to grazing. The improvements are a large and very substantial brick mansion, 40 by 70 feet, with every necessary outhouse, three commodious barns, houses for Negroes, and fish houses at each of the fisheries. 120,000 bricks and 1000 bushels of lime are just burnt on the premises. There is a considerable extent of live fence, both useful and ornamental, two orchards of well selected apples and peach, besides an abundance of other choice fruit. More than 150 acres are in clover, 200 in corn, and land is in preparation for sowing 250 bushels of small grain. Any quantity of hay can be cut from the low grounds, some of which (and all might,) have been reclaimed at a trifling expense. The river and creeks, abound with wild fowl, particularly canvass backs, the woods with deer and a variety of other game. Mules, cattle, highly improved sheep, farming utensils and household furniture can be had. The terms of sale will be accommodating. Property in any of the cities, negroes, bank stock, western lands, or lands near the Ridge, will be taken in payment.—Letters must be addressed to me at Pohick Church, Fairfax county, Virginia.

September 4 GEORGE MASON.

Valuable Property for Sale.

THE subscriber is desirious of selling a handsomely situated farm, on Hunting creek, in Fairfax county Virginia, adjoining the Mount Vernon estate and the lands of general Thomson Mason, four miles from Alexandria, containing about 240 acres, 80 of which are in wood—40 to 50 in thriving meadow of clover and timothy—a part of the residue recently seeded with wheat and rye, and clover, last spring—the whole enclosed with a new post and rail fence.—The improvements are, a comfortable and convenient frame dwelling house and kitchen, smoke house, poultry house, granary and stables.—There is on this place a rich and productive garden, and a large body of marsh meadow, from which may be saved annually 100 tons of hay, nearly as nutricious as the best timothy or clover.—With the farm would be sold a number of very valuable horses, cows and sheep; waggon, carts, and a variety of farming utensils and household and kitchen furniture; corn, oats and rye, and 40 tons hay. Also, adjoining the one above described, a farm containing 160 acres, recently enclosed, on which is a brick house, which a trifling expense would render comfortable. The soil is excellent, and a considerable part might be easily converted into meadow.—it would be sold with the other or separately. Also, a number of valuable servants, male and female. To prevent unnecessary application, he would observe, that they will only be sold to persons residing in the District or its vicinity, and not to be carried from it. The subscriber will also sell the greater part of his household furniture, which is new and handsome. For terms of all or any part of the above property, apply to NOBLET HERBERT, esq. or

Vaccine Institution.

THE small pox having appeared in Alexandria, such persons as have been vaccinated by the subscriber are invited to attend at his office, on St. Asaph-street, between Prince and Duke streets, to have their arms examined. Indigent persons are also invited to the same place for the purpose of being vaccinated. The subscriber will attend at his office every day in the week except Sunday, from 7 o'clock until 10 in the morning, for the purpose of receiving them.

He proposes also to be less particular than heretofore in the investigation of their claims to the benefit of the institution, as may respect their indigence and length of residence in town. The subscriber earnestly requests all such citizens as may be acquainted with persons liable to contagion, to send them without delay as above directed, where they will be served effectually and gratuitously.
